WHY: Millions of dogs and cats become lost each year. Tragically, few are reunited with their owners. Micro-chipping is a simple and effective way to make sure that your pet can be easily identified should you become separated. A small microchip, about the size of a grain of rice, is inserted under the loose skin on the back of your pet's neck. This microchip, which has a unique identification number, remains a permanent means of identification of your pet. This provides your pet with a secure proof of identity, unlike collar tags, which can get lost or be taken off. Your pet is registered on a national database, and a handheld scanner used at the nearest animal shelter, animal control facility or veterinary clinic can easily read the chip when your pet is found and you will be reunited.

Please note that all dogs must be leashed and all cats in carriers.

Please call 847-697-2880 x: 28 to schedule an appointment or with any questions.

Don't let this, or worse, happen to your pet!
